Walton, Suspended, Refuses to Give Up Seat to Trapp

Court Action Against Governor Looms When Disney Says Charges Will Go Before Grand Jury Now In Session.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24.—M. E. Trapp, acting governor of Oklahoma, was temporarily enjoined from filling the office of Governor J. C. Walton here today.

A temporary restraining order was issued by District Judge Tom Chambers in district court here late this afternoon at the request of D. S. Levy, attorney for the governor.

Hearing on permanent injunction proceedings will be heard before Judge Chambers at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24.—The house of the legislature went into session here shortly after ten p. m. today for consideration of the remaining twenty charges of impeachment against Governor J. C. Walton. The senate met at the same time.

Walton, suspended by the action of the senate here last night, was in his office at the capitol, M. E. Trapp, acting governor during the suspension of Walton, was also at the state house.

Debates Delay Balloting.

Balloting on the remaining charges probably will entail lengthy debates, house leaders indicated.

Reading of testimony of E. W. Marland, Ponca City, regarding the purchase of the executive mansion last summer consumed the morning session of the house.

The testimony was read in connection with article four in the impeachment complaint charges.

Governor Walton refused to give up his executive office. He refused to accept service when the senate voted at noon presented him with the suspension order.

Says Senate Action Legal.

Acting Governor Trapp asked Attorney General Short as to his status. Short declared that the action of the senate was legal and that the governor was suspended.

Meanwhile Governor Walton sat in his office closely guarded by several of his personal bodyguard.

Trapp declared that he would take things easy until matters were cleared up and attend to the state's business as it came to him.

Court prosecution of Governor Walton looked as a possibility here today with the announcement by W. E. Disney, chairman of the house investigating committee, that the testimony collected would be turned over to the Oklahoma county grand jury in session here.

"This testimony will hit many, but we can't help that," Disney declared.

The third impeachment charge was voted 84 to 16 against Governor Walton here shortly after 1 o'clock today.

Article four, alleging "use of official influence and power to acquire private credit and property," The ballot was taken following the reading of lengthy testimony of E. W. Marland, Ponca City, oil man, regarding the purchase of the governor's home here last summer.

SEEKING FUNDS FOR STUDENTS

Power Addresses Civilians on Loan Proposition

HAS LOAN SCHEME

Enables Ambitious Unfortunates to Gain Education

First definite action toward establishing a trust fund for the financing of business education for young men and women in Port Arthur Business college was taken today by Leonard Power, president of the institution, in an address before members of the Civitan club at the college dormitory.

"We need $2,000 by next Monday to finance some of the students who are coming to Port Arthur then to begin their business education," Leonard Power said.

"Character, good health and ambition are the necessities the students put up for the money loaned them from the trust fund we are establishing, and to these, the college administration adds further guarantees against losses," he said.

Asks Trust Fund Aid.

"Heartbreaking letters from prospective students who haven't enough money to even pay their scholarships are received almost daily by the college," Power said.

"These prospective students are willing and anxious to work after starting, but they must borrow to begin. Many business men of Port Arthur are setting up trust funds for their worthy students, and we are not asking that others do so," Power told the Civitans.

The students' loan trust fund is planned on bankable lines, pays 1 per cent annual interest to those placing funds in it, and students sign for 20 per cent more than they borrow, the college takes out life insurance policies for each student borrower, protecting the college from possible losses, by death, Power said.

The funds put in the students' trust fund are collectible in two years upon 30 days notice, he explained.

A pamphlet setting forth in detail the workings of the proposed fund which Power is establishing in Port Arthur Business college will be sent out next week, but actual work of creating the fund is underway.

Members of the Rotary club will be addressed Thursday by President Power and asked to invest in the fund.

Enrollment Doubles.

Growth of Port Arthur Business college this year until it has an enrollment double that of any previous year during the full term was attributed by President Power to the cooperation of arrangements with Port Arthur public school authorities for high school students to take business courses along with their high school work, and also to the cooperative plan which permits students to earn while they learn, he told the Civitans today.

"The college now has 23 high school students enrolled for commercial courses, and 32 of the students who enrolled at the opening of the full term are earning enough money during the day to pay for their board and room in the dormitory and schooling in the night school, while others with a little money ahead are coming to day school for six weeks, then going out into jobs for six weeks, where they earn enough to carry them through the business college for another term," Power asserted.

Next Monday 20 boys and girls have been out at work for the past six weeks are coming into the college for six weeks of schooling, and 20 students in the college will go out to fill the places they are leaving, turning their knowledge into dollars and cents, he said.

Indicates Wide Ramifications Of Ring, Say Officers

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24.—Arrests were expected here momentarily of the head of a large wholesale importing house in connection with the investigation of a ring alleged to have sold synthetic whiskey as bonded goods. On information furnished by police of a Texas port city the investigation is being pushed, following the announcement that a bill of sale for extracts, bottles, wrappers and stamps used in the manufacture of illicit whiskey had been seized. Authorities working on the case refused to discuss it.

Federal Pros Closing In Booze Ring

With police, county, state and federal authorities today working on the tip furnished them in connection with the booze counterfeiting ring working out of a Gulf coast city, developments were hourly expected which might cause the arrest of business men of New Orleans in connection with the activities of the ring.

As was announced yesterday in The News, developments here were brought to light concerning the activities of a gang of "bonded whiskey counterfeiter" who were duping the thirsty by means of fake bottles, labels and seals.

"It is impossible," said Chief of Police Walter W. O'Donoghue, this morning, "to estimate the amount of money secured from people who would drink 'bonded stuff' in preference to moonshine. We have known that much of the whiskey traffic here was of the synthetic variety."

Information Given To Pros.

The revelations came about with the arrest of a man who had in his possession a letter and a drum from a wholesale house for the ingredients used in the manufacture of "bonded stuff" including bottles, revenue stamped corks and the cartons. Police have been working the case for some time in hopes of connecting the pros with the activities of the ring and ascertaining the source of supply for the ingredients.

With the arrest Monday and the seizure of some of the "home talent" bottled in bond liquor, police here turned their information over to federal authorities who were closing in on the ring in order to affect the arrests of the wholesale house dispensing the paraphernalia.

DUMP STILWELL DIRT IN GILHAM

Circle Grade To Be Raised 8 to 10 Inches

Improvement of Gilham Circle park with hundreds of wagon loads of dirt hauled into the area, bringing the surface up eight to ten inches, was started today by the city engineer's department, J. O. Herpin, city engineer said.

The dirt is hauled from the piles left up on the bank of Stilwell boulevard drainage ditch when the ditch was cleaned out, widened and deepened recently, according to the city engineer.

Because of the narrowness of the dirt in Gilham Circle, it will be possible for the city to haul about 100 wagon loads into the park daily, Herpin said.

When the dirt is all hauled into the circle, city graders will smooth up the surface of the park.

Items In Proposed Million $69,440 for Shreveport Ditch Dollar Bond Issue Explained

NOTE—This is the third of a series of articles to be published by The News from day to day explaining items in the proposed million dollar city improvement bond issue. The News does this in the interest of the public regarding the fact individual sale may be for or against the proposal.

Shreveport avenue storm sewer is the second greatest artery in the city's drainage system. It serves as an outlet into the Thomas boulevard ditch and thence to the Nineteenth street pumping station for storm water, carrying an area of more than 100 city blocks. This area includes that section between Mobile avenue on the east and Houston avenue on the west, and from the canal to Thomas boulevard. A part of the area between Procter and the canal as far east as Marshall avenue also drains into Shreveport ditch.

Would Be Enclosed.

In its completed form the ditch will be closed from end to end, the avenue covered and converted into an open driveway as are other streets and avenues in the city. In planning for the conduit to take the place of the open ditch, engineers have also provided for openings in the big sewer at each street intersection throughout its entire length thus making it a 100 per cent outlet for all the area included in the above limits.

The Shreveport avenue open ditch has long been both an eyesore and menace to health. In addition a number of more or less serious accidents are chargeable to it within the past few years. The matter of closing of the ditch has been a live issue with the citizens and taxpayers for several years, but heretofore, city officials explain, the city has never been in position financially to undertake the work, since its bonding limit usually was taken up by what was considered more important and immediately necessary public works.

Claim Resources Adequate.

At this time officers say the city's resources are adequate, and immediate steps in the desired direction be taken necessary, they say, because of the condition of the ditch in its present form. Engineers found that the drainway must be either removed or repaired within the next 12 months, and it required, the cost would be approximately $150,000. For these reasons, the commission declares, the present is the right time to submit the issue of replacing the open ditch with a conduit.

The total cost of the conduit and filling of the avenue will be $69,440. Crediting the new project with the cost of repair, should the voters accept the plan, the improvement would cost only about $55,000 net. To take care of this sum in bonds would require a tax levy of approximately 1-1/2 cents on each $100 valuation.

Thursday—Drainage.

Irrespective of what your opinion may be in the proposed million dollar bond issue, The News wants your views. You may favor all the items, favor some and reject others, or be against the entire proposition. That, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, is up to you. Your say in the matter is the final say.

Clip the standard list below. Write in "yes" or "no" in the blank space after each individual proposal, accordingly as you do or do not favor it. Then mail or bring it to the Editor of The News. The results will be printed from day to day.

Atlantic Coast Shipping Suffers Heavy Damage

By United Press.

The steamer has not been heard from since her S. O. S. calls were received yesterday during the 70 mile gale that swept the sea and coastline from Maine to Florida.

Believed Floundered.

The Danish steamer Phoenix picked up three messages from the Westmoreland. One stated that all her lifeboats had been smashed by the heavy seas and the last received was that the crew must be saved with all possible speed.

All attempts to get into communication with the sinking vessel failed, and it is felt she went down with all hands.

From Maine to Carolina, smashing breakwaters, boats and flooded water-fronts today attested the fury of a 60-mile gale which lashed the Atlantic seaboard for 24 hours.

The storm reached its greatest intensity last night and today it was moving southeast.

An unidentified British schooner was seen off Quebec, New York, last night, flying its insign reversed as a distress signal. Waterfront streets of Norfolk and Baltimore, Md., were partially flooded by the extraordinarily high tide caused by the wind piling up the seas. The Cape Charles and Whitequarrier lightships broke adrift but were picked up later. The light-house at Cape Henlopen near Lewes, Delaware, was menaced by giant surges.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

And as luck would have it, they caught a whale

Mister Dodger wrote this poem and read it to Nancy and Nick in his corn-shook house in squeaky-moo Land:

Said the guinea-pig to the guinea-pig, "I haven't been away in I don't know when."

Said the guinea-pig to the guinea-pig, "Why, that's just because you are not very big."

So you get your coat and I'll get my hat, And we'll both go and see where the king lives at."

So off they went in a ten-cent bus, With plenty of feathers but without any fuse.

A big guinea-pig made out of gold Was the only mummy they had, I'm told:

They rode and they rode but were two days late, And they missed the express so went by freight.

They shipped on a boat o'er the bring-deep, Guinea-pig got sick and he cried, "Peep, peep!"

But Miss Pig Hen found a great big book, And she said as she read with a long, deep look:

"Here's a place called Guinea, right on the sea, called Guinea, that's the place for you and me!"

So she put on her hat, and the pig (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

got his coat, And they jumped o'er the side of the great big boat, And as luck would have it, they caught a whale, And they hoisted a muslin sheet for a sail, And they landed in Guinea in time for tea, But alas, there was nothing to drink but sea!

"Oh, me, oh, my!" called the pig to a parrot, "I'd dearly love a yellow carrot."

"While I," said the hen in a hungry voice, "Twixt corn and oats would have no choice."

But the parrot laughed till he couldn't see, And all he said was, "My, oh me!"

The two friends stood on the sandy shore, And they looked for a boat till their eyes got sore, But nothing came but a blue balloon, So they climbed in that and were soon in a noose.

Mrs. Guinea Hen smiled as she hung up her hat, "Piggy, dear, what's the difference where the king lives at?"

"Oh, dear!" laughed Nancy, "That's a funny place!"

"I always was a poet," said Mister Dodger with pride, "I think I should have been a writer instead of a fairy!"

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

CHAPTER 15

Better Ways of Starting Fire.

Fire-making has been one of the great concerns of mankind ever since man first carried blazing sticks of forest fire and used them to start a bonfire.

You remember that people later learned to start fires themselves by rubbing sticks back and forth on large pieces of wood. That method of starting fires is used even today by certain tribes of out-of-the-way places of the earth.

Stone Age people learned still better ways of starting fires. One of these was to twist a pointed stick against a piece of wood. The stick could be twisted between the palms of the hands. Fire was thus started much faster than before; a very few minutes of work were now enough to get the flame going.

It appears, however, that the early people of Europe became acquainted with a still better way of making fire. Flint many thousands of years old have been found in several spots next to pyrites. The pyrite is a mixture of iron and sulphur. It is found in many parts of Europe, often at the surface of the ground.

Because of its yellow color, pyrite has often been mistaken for gold. It is sometimes called "fool's gold," because you are fooled when you think it's gold.

The word "pyrite" comes from the Greek language, and means fire-stone. Stone age men are believed sometimes to have picked up some of this pyrite, and to have used it to start fires with the aid of flint and tinder.

We can well imagine an early man finding a piece of pyrite and taking it to his cave. There he tried to see whether it could be used in chipping flint.

To his surprise there were sparks! "These sparks are like those of a fire," he exclaimed.

By and by, he got the idea of seeing if the sparks would set anything on fire. He collected some dry grass and placed it in a little pile in front of him. Then he held the flint near the grass while he struck it with the pyrite stone. Sparks flew. In a few moments, the tinder began to blaze. Fire had been started in a new and quicker way!

Here is a Stone-Age man striking a pyrite stone against a flint to make sparks. The sparks will kindle the tinder to be seen beneath.

Pearce: Harold Lloyd featured in "Why Worry?"
Strand: Popular Players in vaudeville and picture, "Pilgrims of Night."
Elks: "Miss Maloney's Troublesome Sweetheart."
Green Tree: "More to Be Pitted"; and "Fighting Blood."

"WHY WORRY?"
In "Why Worry?", his latest entry in the race for popular plaudits, and the feature attraction at the Pearce Theatre now, Lloyd again proves his own theory, that to mix them up is to serve the public best. "Why Worry?" is as unlike any picture Harold Lloyd has made before, as any two things could be. It is a South American story, strong in force but with an ever present vein of satire that should prove delightful to the American audience, which does not like its entertainment too serious.

It is claimed to be the biggest picture in Lloyd's category, from the point of production. Big sets, huge crowds, and much fighting add to its production values. Yet above all these stands out the character of Lloyd, as the boy who has naught to worry him but imaginary ills. Another outstanding figure is John Aasen. Eight feet, nine and a quarter inches of Aasen stands out on the screen. He is the world's biggest man.

"MERRY-GO-ROUND"

An advance notice says: Sometimes what seems bitter may turn out to be the greatest good for the most. The "Merry-Go-Round" of fate may jerk one from one extreme position, while one to a far corner of the world stage, and there being a desired purpose to fruition by a chance twist of circumstances. The "Merry-Go-Round" is running all the time, quietly, smoothly, and most efficiently. He who thinks he need not ride would do well to see the motion picture "Merry-Go-Round," which opens at the Peoples, October 31. The photodrama told in this story of love and war concerns a girl of the lower classes, a work driver organ grinder at the Plater, Virginia Coney Island, and a proud young court, a son of one of the "leading families" and right-hand man of the Emperor Franz Josef. Miss Philbin and Norman Kerry play these two roles. While Miss Philbin is new to the stellar reels, Kerry is a young actor of concentrated experience, a "troop" of fine technique. They are well matched, a romantic pair. Great credit is due Miss Philbin for the excellence of her work. Cesare Gravina, Dale Fuller, Maude George, George Hackathorn, George Seigmann, Al Edmundson, Anton Vavarka, Lillian Sylvester, Edith York, Spotlwood, Aiken, Dorothy Wallace, Sidney Tracy, Helen Brennan, Jane Snerman, are all deserving of special mention for the excellence of their work.

PERFORATED SPOON

In your kitchen supplies you should have a large perforated spoon for creaming butter and sugar for pastry. It is much more convenient than a regular spoon, or a fork.

'Merry-Go-Round' Claimed To Be the Season's Distinctive Feature

Here are Mae Murray and Norman Kerry, starting in "Merry-Go-Round," feature picture coming to Peoples next Wednesday.

WAR ON WEEVIL
PARLEY OPENED

Concerted Effort Is Made Against Great Pest

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 24.—War on the South's greatest crop menace—the boll weevil—was opened here today by capital, finance, science and agriculture. In cotton growing states, the pest, according to the New Orleans cotton exchange, has cost farmers over a billion dollars within the last few years.

Attended by delegates from all parts of the country bent on waging a tough fight against the weevil, the three days' session, got under way at 10 o'clock with Harry D. Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture presiding.

Today's session was taken up by reports of committees and individuals who have made a study of the weevil situation and have plans worked out to fight the pest. The merits of these different plans will be gone into fully and a committee appointed at today's session will shape the reports to be presented at tomorrow's session.

Numerous machines, acids and chemical processes for destroying the weevil have been worked out by individuals who will be requested to demonstrate their plans before the convention. One of the machines expected to be exhibited is a contraption for picking up the fallen bolls or bolls from the ground by means of a vacuum system. The birds, containing the weevils, are then dropped into a furnace carried by the machine. Many prominent men from Texas were among the delegates.

ENDS LIFE IN WIFE'S
TRIANGULAR CHARGES

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—A few days after he had been arrested with a girl a little more than half his age in her apartment, James Babka, wealthy contractor and father of seven, ended the triangle his wife charged he existed for seven years by shooting himself in the bathroom of his home.

Babka, one of the best known homebuilders in Chicago, was arrested in a raid on the flat of Miss Bessie Palmer, 27 years old, let by Mrs. Mary Babka, two sons and two daughters.

7-YEAR-OLD HURT
BY PASSING AUTO

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 24.—Louise Slater, aged 7, 205 Alton street was painfully injured Monday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile on Highland avenue. It was said that the driver of the car, who was a negro, did not stop after the accident and none of the bystanders were able to give the number to police who investigated the accident.

HE COULDN'T TELL WHICH WAS HURT

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Oct. 24.—Leland Newby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Newby of Plover, and one of trippers, was critically injured by an automobile driven by Rudy Campbell of Ohio, who, it is claimed, was crowded off the highway by a truck. So nearly did the tripper resemble that other that their father, when he saw the victim, was unable to say which one had been injured.

KNIFE, WHISKY AND FIGHT: NOW ITS JAIL

Two charges, one federal and the other city, descended upon Stella Davis, negro, in rapid succession Tuesday afternoon, by being out of contention of a brand of table salt that it never rains but it pours. Stella had a slight misunderstanding with another negro and police saw a knife played a prominent part in the affair. Assistant Chief Bailey and Captain J. A. Fox of the local re-arrangement confiscated a pop bottle full of alleged whisky in making Stella's arrest and she was booked on an additional charge of possession of the intoxicating liquor.

POLICE GUARD
LLOYD GEORGE

Stranger Trailing Famous Briton Is Detained

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—A mysterious stranger who followed Lloyd George's party through Chicago, Indianapolis, Marion and Cleveland was ordered detained today by secret service men.

The actions of the man resulted in sudden switching of plans for the party during the early hours of the morning. Lloyd George's train was guarded by a solid phalanx of police massed on all sides.

Couriers were thrown around the railroad station here and detectives packed the train on which the party departed for Pittsburgh at 10 a. m. The suspect, who spoke with an English accent, introduced himself first to the party in Chicago, where he made several attempts to see Lloyd George, according to A. J. Sylvester, personal secretary to the former premier.

The man registered here under the name of Edmund Gerardo. Secretary Sylvester asked United States secret service men to apprehend him.

Color Cut-outs A Backyard Halloween Party

"Shall we have the Halloween party in the house or in the yard?" Natalie Clippard asked her friend Betty Cut-out.

"Let's have it in the backyard," Betty cried. "There's a high picket fence all around, and over the gate we can build a big arch with pumpkin faces glaring down."

"Just the thing," Natalie agreed. "Together they ran to the backyard to plan just how it would be."

If you want to have a regular Halloween party for your Cut-outs, here's the way to make a yard to give it in. Take a lot boy and cut the top in points as in the picture above. Cut an open place in one corner for the gate. Tomorrow you will see how to make the arch above it, and on the following days will appear a witch's cavern, a grab bag, a cat with a broken tail and other amusements for the party.

KEEP TOO MUCH TO THEMSELVES

Many men and women of middle age feel that they have never had a chance to make anything out of themselves. But the main reason for this is usually that they let such things as pimples, rash, breaking out, zema, better, etc., on their face, neck, hands or arms make them feel that they are not wanted around and they keep to themselves too much.

You can get just as much out of life as anyone. All you need is confidence in yourself, which you get naturally when you rid yourself of those skin troubles, if you just use the wonderful Black and White Ointment. It is economically priced, in generous packages. All dealers have it. The 50c size contains three times as much as the 25c size.—adv.

I stood around, Syd, and tried to look interested in the baby but, honestly, all I could think of was that money. As far as Leslie was concerned, however, I might have been a table or a chair. Finally little Jack stopped that rasping cough and breathed easier. She then turned to me and said curtly, "I'm tired. I shall lie down for awhile."

"But, Leslie," I expostulated, "please tell me if you got the money from your father. It is absolutely imperative if I wish to hold my position with Bullock that the money be turned back into the general fund today."

"All right," Leslie said, "I'll give you the money," and picking up her handbag which she had dropped in the room when she went to care for the baby, she opened it and pulled out a roll of bills.

You can imagine my surprise, Syd. I could not and still cannot understand why Leslie should have cash instead of a check, but I was happy enough to get the money in any form. With an exclamation of joy I stretched out my hand for it when she seemed to remember something. She grew white and then red and thrust the money back into her handbag as she said, "Wait a minute." She rushed back into her room.

In a few minutes she came out and handed me 12 five hundred dollar bills. As I felt the peculiar texture of our American money in my hands a cold perspiration broke out all over me. For a moment I could not speak.

"I have managed to get out of a very tight place, Syd, but I'm sure that I haven't lost something of great value that I shall never find again."

Beltless Dress

The beltless dress that is ever so slightly molded to one's figure is the very newest dress of all. It is the revival of the princess dress and Paris has spoken for it with unanimous approval. The coming season is likely to see even more marked developments in this princess silhouette.

Sketched is an attractive model with a clever way of joining blouse and skirt and the fashionable square neckline that is most becoming.

Bound Buttonholes Are Decoration to Dress

Well made bound buttonholes are a real decoration to a dress, often the only trimming in these days of simple, smart cut gowns. These buttonholes are easy to make if care is taken from the first step.

First mark the place for the buttonholes on the garment with a thread. On the right side baste a piece of material (the facing) over the buttonhole mark. Place this material right side down. A true bias is generally used as it makes a flatter buttonhole.

An easy way to make sure all the buttonholes are exactly alike in size is to draw lines, representing the buttonhole on a piece of paper and baste this paper mark to the wrong side of the buttonhole.

Stitch around the buttonhole on the lines on the paper as shown in Figure A, about one-eighth of an inch either side of the center. Cut through the center to within one-eighth of an inch of the ends and cut diagonally to each corner.

Remove the paper on the wrong side and draw the facing on the right side through the opening to the wrong side to form a binding. Draw each end back close to the stitching and baste this facing in place, basting from the right side to keep an even width binding, Figure B.

A Good Job

One rainy day I started my children and their friends at painting the porch furniture. I found that painting is a job they love so I provided them with old overalls, and now they take great delight in "doing over" old furniture, keeping shelves freshly painted, and doing many other "odd jobs" of painting in our basement on Saturdays.

PEOPLE HAVE STATE FAIR DAY

Expos and Staff Arrive for Big Initiation

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—Today has been designated as Kila Day at the state fair now in progress here. Eight special trains from various Texas points arrived here this morning filled with members of the order. Large delegations of Klansmen are coming in from surrounding states and representatives are expected from every state in the union.

Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans arrived from Atlanta yesterday on a special train with a retinue of fifty special attendants. Wizard Evans is to be the principal speaker of the day starting the program at 9:30 with a speech from the loud speaker on the grounds.

The dedication of Hope Cottage, Dallas Home for foundling babies, will take place with J. D. Van Winkle master of ceremonies and Z. E. Maxey will present the cottage. Mrs. Emma Wylie Hallard will accept the cottage on behalf of the Hope Cottage association. Mayor Louis Blum will speak on "Charity."

In the afternoon a football game will be staged under the auspices of the Klan between Oak Cliff high school and the Sulphur Springs high school team.

Klan, Kamelia Initiation
Following the regular fireworks program in front of the grandstand to-night the members of the Klan and Kamelia, the women's organization, will stage a public initiation ceremony. After the initiation the meeting will adjourn to Pacific avenue, a street recently opened here, with impressive ceremonies by the city, where there will be dancing with the various Klan bands furnishing the music. After this a parade will be staged leading the out-of-town members to the union station, where their trains will be waiting.

PLANE KILLS QUAIL WHILE IN FLIGHT

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24.—With the hunting season still more than a month away, enlisted men at Logan field feasted on partridges, broiled to a turn, while Lieut. Sylvan Gusdorf, Maryland national guard, is wondering whether he can be held for involuntary violation of the state game laws.

Lieutenant Gusdorf took off in his usual manner and was just skimming into the air when, with a whirr that emulated the hum of the propeller, a covey of partridges flushed in front of the plane.

Light of the birds snatched into the propeller and stay wires and were killed.

ALLEGED HORSE THIEF ESCAPES AT MARSHALL

MARSHALL, Texas, Oct. 24.—A long distance telephone call today at the sheriff's office here from Jefferson stated that a man named Bridges, one of the men being held in jail there, escaped and was still at large.

Bridges was being held on the grand jury on a warrant charging him and his brother with horse stealing.

SAYS HUSBAND TOOK SANDPAPER TO BACK

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 24.—Sandpapering a wife's back is a new form of cruelty even in a divorce court where almost every kind of torture has been alleged.

Mrs. Lucile B. Palmer alleged yesterday that her husband, E. Palmer, was guilty of rough treatment when he sandpapered her back or hand the skin off. Another cruelty alleged by the wife was that Palmer became angry because she had her hair bobbed and wouldn't speak to her for a week.

GETS DIVORCE, CHANGES DRESS THEN MARRIES

COLUMBIUS, Ind., Oct. 24.—(AP) Mrs. C. C. Smith, 29, told today she would be granted a divorce from Joseph Smith in circuit court here and that she would be free to marry Dr. W. B. Brinkman, 22, that she engaged a minister to perform the wedding ceremony.

The divorce was granted within 20 minutes. Mrs. Smith appeared for third husband. The divorce of woman went directly from the courtroom to the county clerk's office, where she changed her dress and took the vows.

WHISKY VAULT IS AGAIN EMPTY AT SAN ANGELO

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 24.—The vault in the federal building here is almost empty again. The deputy United States marshal, during the present term of federal court ending Wednesday, poured out 100 bottles of whisky and ginger and extract in addition to about ten gallons of whisky, leaving only the "residue" in cases against Bob Bates and Tom Carter, still pending.

Jim Fitchett, Mexican associate before the court just as Judge William B. Atwell was preparing to leave on the Santa Fe, and was sentenced to 15 days in jail for selling a pint of liquor to B. T. Ray.

Muny Concerts Grant Peep At Big Stars for Fifty Cents

By ERNEST L. LYNN
NEA Service Writer
CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 24.—The city has gone into the impressive business.

It is staging a series of concerts, featuring some of the world's highest priced operatic and concert stars.

And 50 cents will buy a reserved seat.

For 50 cents, Clevelanders will be able to hear John McCormack, Mary Garden or any of a number of other stars who have thrilled audiences the world over.

All this is brought about through the efforts of Lincoln G. Dickey, manager of Cleveland's public auditorium, Dickey's Dream.

Dickey dreamed a dream of filling Cleveland's vast auditorium—a hall capable of seating 12,500 persons—with great audiences, while a world-famous singer and musician poured out their golden notes for a price within reach of everyone.

He fought a fight against precedent—against a veritable trust. Concert managers told him it had never been done, that it was impossible.

That was his fight—a fight for the people.

"The City of Cleveland presents John McCormack, Mary Garden, John Charles Thomas, Frances Alda and other stars—season tickets for $2.20 to $8.00—single tickets 50 cents up."

Last year all the concerts of any worth were put on by professional impresarios. They were dictated to by New York managers of states. They were forced to guarantee fixed sums. They were left very little profit.

Dickey, who spent years in the Chautauque business and the concert game before he assumed the management of Cleveland's mammoth auditorium, believed that plan was all wrong. He had no fight against local producers; he carried his battle to New York. And he won.

No Guarantees
McCormack, Garden and the others come here without any guarantee. They get their percentage of the ticket sales. Dickey handles the selling of his ticket prices.

And that's not all. To prove that he has no intention of hurting the business of Cleveland's professional impresarios, Dickey insists that all concert stars coming to Cleveland's auditorium under the management of local producers give the same terms to the individual promoters as they would have to give the city.

Real Stars
This is Dickey's program:
Oct. 28: John McCormack and a Violinist.
Nov. 25: Mary Garden and Gerta Chini cellist.

Dec. 10: John Charles Thomas, baritone; the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra and Eugene Vessey, violinist.
Dec. 20: Metropolitan Quartet with Frances Alda, soprano; Charles Hackett, tenor; Renato Zanelli, baritone, and other artists, in addition to the Cleveland Symphony, itself worth the price of admission.

"They don't like me in New York," says Dickey. "In fact, they hate me. I'm a poison. I'm afraid."

But they think pretty well of Dickey, Cleveland. The public auditorium built by the taxpayers, was dedicated to the people's use. And Dickey is doing a good job of dedicating.

Ghost Spite Whispered as Inn Goes Up in Ohio Smoke

'Haunted' Landmark Is No More After Flames Take House and Stable; Incendiary Is Suspected

RAVENNA, O., Oct. 24.—The grinning ghost of a murdered hunchback in peddler who, the old folks say, drove his only white horse over the county lines near Lamburg, is now without shelter and his horse no longer has a stall.

The famous and historic old Edinburg Inn, which stood for nearly 80 years as a landmark on the Edinburg road, burned to the ground early today and with it went the old cobwebbed stable which stood nearby.

Frightened by Ghost
Superstitious folk speculated as to whether the old peddler's spirit finally got revenge on the building in which he is said to have met a mysterious death, or whether persons of the neighborhood who have been frightened by the recent appearance of "ghosts" burned the house, thinking the ghost would leave the district.

According to reports a party of 20 young people visited the grounds of the old house which has been deserted in a lonely country for the last 15 years, and enjoyed a winter toast.

They built a large bonfire, confident that its radiance would safely keep back in the shadows any haunting, ghost-stomped figure.

It was several hours after the young folks left, however, that a motorist found flames bursting from all sides of the house. A second flame was darting from the dusty stable only a few feet away.

Motorist Flee
The motorist ran through the night for fear he would be a lonely, eyewitness to a ghastly death scene, excited by the tenebrous ghost. If this legendary wanderer rattled his wagonload of tinware around the flaming structure, there were none to see him.

The fire takes away Portage county's most noted old building. It was built early in the nineteenth century, shortly after Edmund Postwick, Sr., gained the property from the Commonwealth land company. The country was a wilderness then and paths through the virgin forest served as roads for the hardy pioneers.

It was an imposing structure in those days and soon became a tavern where weary travelers to the west stabled their horses and rested every night. Much of the community's early history centered around the inn and it was during this period, on a blustery winter night, that an old peddler drove up with his white horse and asked for lodging.

Peddler Murdered.
As was the custom he lounged in front of the fire for an hour after supper before being shown to the only vacant room—one over the kitchen in the rear.

The storm cleared during the night and the hunchback did not appear in the brisk, cold air to feed his hungry horse.

Becoming alarmed at his failure to appear, others at the inn went to the room—the one over the kitchen in the rear—and found his body.

He had been murdered during the night.

The story and discussion of how this once man had met death became a popular topic for discussion at the inn and subsequent travelers covered through the horror of its retelling.

Layada Shifts to Port Arthur
Finishing lifting cargo at Port Neches, the steamship Layada shifted to Port Arthur today. The tanker Georgia, which has been discharging a part cargo of Mexican crude at the Texas Company's Port Arthur terminal, shifted to Port Neches today to finish discharging.

Jess Couch Topples Kid Smith Straight Falls To Win Bout

Visiting Grappler's Shoulders Pinned to Mat Twice in 35 Minutes; Local Marvel Shows Superior Strength in Speedy Mill at Nat

By TAB

USING a gruelling head lock and a double arm lock, Jess (Young) Couch, the 19-year-old wrestling marvel of Port Arthur had conquered Kid Smith from Denison on straight fall 35 minutes after their match in Plaza Natatorium had gotten under way last night.

It was a short-lived engagement, and Couch, whose superior strength was the outstanding feature of the clash, was an easy victor, despite the fact that Smith put up a bitter struggle during the short while he went to the mats with the Port Arthur grappler.

Nine minutes after the timekeepers had sounded time, Couch pinned Smith to the floor, and the referee patted him on the back, indicating that the local boy had also pinned the visitor's shoulders down. Smith continued that both his shoulders had not visited the mats for the three-minute space of time allotted by professional wrestling, and Couch was willing to wrestle further. Releasing a grueling head lock with which he had been apparently holding the visiting grappler, Couch again seized the local boy and in one minute later had declared victory of the first fall.

There was little talk going when Smith and Couch met last night. The crowd, although small in numbers, possibly due to a biting wind out of westerly skies, broke forth in loud cheering when the pit and apronized the mats, and the ensuing continued with a profuse sound as they took seats in opposite corners.

Shouts of "We believe in you, Smith" and "make it short and sweet, Jess," seemed to break even among the rosters, and it was evident that Kid Smith and Couch were claiming a parity on boosters at the ring side.

Mr. Miller, George Avakian, Lee Myers, Charlie Hall of Beaumont and Owen Buckner were called into the arena and introduced to the crowd as witnesses present at the match, and later on, Will Fort of Beaumont, promoter well known here, and Leo Brandy, local heavyweight grappler, were sighted in reserve benches.

Buckner, and Lee Myers challenged the winner of the bout, Myers stating that for three straight matches he had challenged winners, and that he would be ready to appear at any time if he was in Port Arthur. But when, through his manager, Mr. Miller, announced that he wanted Smith or Smith at Port Arthur, he would war the any time with any referee of his own choice.

George Avakian was introduced as third man in the ring, and the principals of the Beaumont trial were called to the center of the arena. A hand and body examination seeming to meet with the approval of each, the two wrestlers separated to their corners and got ready to tangle.

The first fall was a somewhat rough one, but Couch seemed to be having Smith's back, and the two boys did stand on their feet very long after they had shaken hands. Less than a minute after they had separated, Smith suddenly fell, Couch suddenly seized Smith and pinned him on a mat. Smith was full of men when he caught at the fall, and the crowd cheered at the fall, and the referee declared Couch the winner.

MORE GRAPPLERS LINE UP TO GO

Avakian, Druckerman, Hall, Talking Bouts

Indication that considerable interest is being taken in the advent of wrestling in Port Arthur by the mat fraternity was evident last night at Plaza Nat when a crowd of six hundred spectators of the game sat at the ringside to witness the Couch-Smith tangle.

And more noise was huzzled about when it became known that Charlie Hall of Beaumont is duking with local promoters for a clash with Lee Myers, and that George Avakian and Harry Druckerman are talking matches.

NO ONE WOMAN RULES GOLFDOM

Alexia Once Called the Invincible Player

By JOE WILLIAMS

Tell business of being an "invincible" in golf is a glamorous thing, but it looks the good, old-fashioned, homesick, and a little bit of a mystery.

They used to call Alexia Stripping an invincible champion, Alexia win three national titles, consecutively, establishing a record in the country's most notable contribution to the feminine end of the sport.

It will be years before America develops another player in her class, the expert said.

Hardly had the first shot of the year been settled in the Valley of the Pines, when Marion Hollins came along and outplayed the invincible champion's champion.

And the next year, Glenna Collett, an even greater player than Miss Stripping, came along and won the title.

She was not a more maid. She had something few women players ever had, a "swing" length of the year. And the rest of her game was proportionately strong.

Here was an invincible for you! She could be a long time in the game, and she could be a long time in the game, and she could be a long time in the game, and she could be a long time in the game.

EXPECT TO BE 1924 WINNERS

And Giants Say They'll Win World's Cup

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—"We dropped you twice and you'll do again next year," the defeated Giant players huffed at the victorious Yankees in good natured jesting after the last game of the world's series.

The two rival clubs occupied adjoining dressing rooms under the stands at the Polo Grounds and at though there had been some bad spirit shown on the field during the series, the players were friendly again after the last game.

The spirit in which the Giants accepted their defeat was interesting inasmuch as it indicated the opinion of the local players that the two New York teams would win the major league pennant again next season and play against each other in the fourth straight game.

More thoughts of such a thing may cause consternation in the cities outside of New York where the opinion has already been expressed that the monopoly of this city on the series is killing interest in baseball. To argue the question about what effect the continued success of the Yankees is having upon baseball in general, is beside the present point.

The Yankees and the Giants, both sure that they will win the pennant again next year and from a casual glance right now over what they will have to bat, it is reasonable to assume that the two pennant winners are not outclassed now for the 1924 meet.

During the winter, when choppers may be made to strengthen rival clubs, it is reasonable to assume that the Yankees will have a firm for a second year no other major league club can offer to encourage its challenge.

New York players can confidently expect another million dollar series if they win the pennant and on other hand in baseball can have its manager rather the players around the table in the summer of 1924.

"My good boys, if you win the pennant and the world's series you will be entitled to $75,000 over your salary. If you win the pennant and lose the series you will still get $25,000."

Early Football Clash Establish New Records Eastern Stadium Roster

BELIEVE LYNCH HURT SHOULDER

But Commission Suspends Fighter Anyway

By MENNY L. FARBELL. United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Attention: records for early season football games were established last Saturday, when five big games on the schedule attracted almost 10,000 spectators each.

This is a manifestation of unusual interest in the popular college game for such early season games and it is due to the facts that which in the past have been reserved for November features of the schedule are being played.

Next Saturday's mark will be passed for a certainly next Saturday and on each succeeding week through the schedule.

Harvard and Dartmouth may draw 30,000 at Cambridge and Boston will have enough surplus to contribute at least 25,000 to the Marquette-Boston college, a game that will bring the first Marquette team to the east for the first time.

Centre and Penn will fill the new stadium at Franklin Field to its capacity of 50,000. Brown and Yale headlined at least 25,000 to the Yale bowl, which is only half its capacity.

Penn and West Virginia two undefeated teams in line for the eastern championship may play before a 40,000 or 50,000 crowd in the New Yankee Stadium.

Georgia Tech and Notre Dame, furnishing one of the feature games of the midwestern are sure to draw a vast throng and Iowa and Ohio State are almost sure to pack the new Columbus stadium which has a capacity of about 70,000. The east has already learned and the midwestern and south, if it is already not known, will find out that football has reached such a place and it is a question of how many will be turned away from the games and not the number that will watch the big battles.

Yale athletic officials have already announced that all seats for the Yale-Army game on November 3 have been disposed of, "privately" and that no tickets will be placed on public sale.

For several years no seats have been available for the public for the "big three" games and Harvard and Yale have reached the point where only one ticket can be awarded to a student.

The Army and Navy engage in their annual game at the Polo Grounds this year and it has been announced that the best that can be done for New York will be 25 cents each newspaper can purchase.

Headline chirps "Can't they sell Sox?" Isn't this a rather delicate subject to discuss in the papers?

NICK NEEDS NEW RULES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Nick Atrocious, the well-known baseball clown, was out on the links of a fashionable club chasing the elusive Mr. Par.

On one of the tees Mr. Atrocious was poised to strike. The ball was out a yard or so in advance of the tee markers, behind which all drivers must be made.

A club member was waiting to play behind Mr. Atrocious. He noticed that Mr. Atrocious was playing in front of the tee markers instead of behind them.

The gentleman was shocked and observed cautiously: "Persons should learn the rules of the game before attempting to play."

Mr. Atrocious withered him with a look.

"This is not my drive sir. It is my second shot."
